Please read and sign our Code of Conduct for Parents and Spectators:

Parents and spectators hold a vital key to the young athlete's sporting experience...that of creating a supportive atmosphere. This can be created on the way to the games and practices, at the competition site and on the way home. While carpooling, or watching the games, you have the opportunity to meet and interact with many other adults and youth. Be mindful that what you say and do is heard, seen and often emulated by others. You can lift the spirit and confidence of the young athletes with your encouragement and example.

KEEP IT POSITIVE!!!

As a parent and spectator, I will strive to:

- Yell encouragement to the entire team
- Refrain from making negative comments
- Relinquish responsibility for the athletes to the coach during the game
- Applaud performances and effort demonstrated by both teams
- Instill and reinforce the competition as a game and sport, not a war
- Help a young athlete see the positive side if disappointment occurs
- Point out the positive, not the mistakes when "replaying the game"
